We're not like other supply chain planning consultants or system implementers. Our Kinaxis team is among the most experienced and knowledgeable experts in the world – and we're here to help you get the most out of Maestro.

Experience matters

The decision to invest in a supply chain planning tool like Kinaxis Maestro™ is significant. Whether it's your first SCP implementation, an upgrade, or an effort to expand existing capabilities, choosing the right partner makes all the difference. Here's our delivery promise:

Certified expertise

From Kinaxis Fellows to Solution Architects and Integration Consultants, our team has the technical skills and delivery know-how to ensure the technology does what it's supposed to do – support decision-making and improve business outcomes.

Roadmaps that lead somewhere

We work with you to map out an actionable plan that is aligned with your North Star – a strategy to modernize your tech stack, eliminate technical debt, and build a supply chain that wins today and is ready for whatever comes next.

Implementations that actually work

Real results with real-world impact

A clean break from the past

We helped an industrial hygiene solutions leader replace its legacy APS with Maestro to enable “what if” scenario planning and increase agility. The result? S&OP cycles are shorter and planners are now aligned around the globe.

Pouring end-to-end efficiency

A Kinaxis first: We delivered an end-to-end solution for a leading beer manufacturer spanning Planning, Distribution, Replenishment, and Finite Scheduling. It streamlined and enhanced planning capabilities ahead of nationwide brand expansion.

Shifting planning into high gear

A global fitness leader had invested in Kinaxis, but the tool was underutilized and planning performance lagged. With our help, they eliminated manual workarounds, optimized logic, and uncovered opportunities to lower inventory and ship less.

The future starts today.
